NEW SERIES: VOL. XIV.—NO. 10

Mrs. A. S. Hollaway

DEAR MR. LOGGINS:

I had the sad misfortune to lose my wife on the 5 of the present month at Baptist Hospital at Memphis where she had gone for an operation. She was a most estimable sweet pure Christian woman, with noble traits of character. She had hundreds of friends. She leaves two sons and one daughter and husband, the writer, who is all broken up with the loss of the devoted companion for over twenty years.

She was prominent in church, social and club life and loved her neighbors as she loved self.

Yours truly

A. S. HOLLAWAY White Station, Tenn.

A Card of Thanks, To our Friends

We wish to thank you for the beautiful floral offering and the words of sympathy in our recent bereavement.

A. S. HOLLAWAY AND FAMILY

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is cataract. Cataract being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative power of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

This meeting will be presided over by Squire Wyatt Wilkinson, Chairman of the County Board of Education. "C"

Farmers Cooperate in Sheep Breeding Project

Recently four wide-awake young farmers in Hamblen County decided that they were not satisfied with the kind of sheep that they were producing so they made up their minds that they would do something to better the situation not only for themselves but for the county as a whole.

To start with they agreed to cooperate in a purebred breeding project. They determined the breed they wanted, which was Hampshires. An experienced sheep man was selected to visit one of the best Hampshire herds in Virginia and select eight ewes and one ram. Seven of these ewes cost $100, each, and one was secured for $50. A ram which drew third prize at the International Livestock show at Chicago in 1919 was purchased for $175. The sheep were shipped to Morristown and there the men met and selected two ewes each and one of the men was selected to take the entire lot and keep them with the ram during the breeding season and up until the county fair at which time they will be exhibited together and then each owner will take his two ewes for his farm. Next year they will all be brought together again for breeding.

This is just a little lesson in cooperation and the value of such can readily be seen. The county agricultural agent is always ready to advise and assist those interested in such projects as this, as D. G. Stout, agent in Hamblen County did in this instance.

Disking Crops Into Soil Process To Be Satisfactory

In reply to an East Tennessee Farmer regarding the turning under of soy beans and peas to be followed by crimson clover, J. C. McAmis, agronomy specialist of the Division of Extension, University of Tennessee has the following to say:

We have found it a good practice on the Experiment Station Farm to disk the beans and peas into land if the growth is not too heavy. We believe that the practice of disking the crop into the soil gives equally as good results as turning, if it can be properly done. Ordinarily it pays much better to cut the crop for hay, feed and return the manure to the land than it does to turn the crop of beans or peas under. Soy beans and peas add very little to the land if they are cut for hay and if the manure is not returned.

TENNESSEE FARMERS ADOPT RESOLUTIONS DISPLAYING ROBUST AMERICAN SPIRIT

The recent session of the Middle Tennessee Farmers' Institute at Columbia was one of the most successful and generally profitable meetings of that excellent body of progressive Tennesseans ever assembled.

The convention adopted resolutions regarding present issues and conditions that are most pleasing in tone and full of the robust American spirit which will be of interest to every citizen of the state. The resolutions as adopted follow in full:

"We renew our expression of loyalty to the institutions of America. We believe that this is the best government ever devised by the mind of man under divine guidance. Whatever reforms may be necessary or available in government can be made without doing violence to the eternal principles upon which this nation was founded. Whatever protests are made against existing conditions are made against the law or its administration and not against the institutions of America.

"We distinctly deprecate any effort to array one class against another or to appeal to any group of citizens. Our system wisely recognizes no groups of citizens, but all enjoy the same rights and privileges. Any departure from this established doctrine threatens the destruction of the vital principles of American democracy, under which opportunity is boundless and open to all. A man or any organization that would injure or do violence to this government is unworthy the protection of the flag.

"Agriculture is the basis of all commerce and industry. The great world need of today is production. Production is dependent upon labor. The solidarity of labor is such that the wages and hours of labor prevailing in other industries are reflected upon the farm. It is idle, therefore, to continue to advance the cost of production without expecting to pay an increased price for the product of labor, on the farm as well as in the other industries of the nation.

"The farmers are continuing their best efforts to produce under conditions that would appeal less resolute men, and they demand of both labor and capital that they, too, shall earnestly speed up their part of the production so urgently needed. We have reached the critical point in regard to shorter hours of labor, and we know that a forty-four-hour week will neither feed nor clothe the world.

"We believe in the ownership of private property. In individual initiative and incentive. It is only in the safeguarding and protection of every right of private property that there can be perpetuated the full measure of individual initiative and emulation upon which democracy is based and by which its future is assured.

"To attempt to thwart natural economic laws by legislation is useless. The law of supply and demand, unhampered by monopolies and unhindered by attempts at governmental price fixing, should have full sway. We affirm that the application of price fixing in an effort to reduce the cost of living has militated against the producer without giving the anticipated relief to the consumer, and this has resulted in the decreased production of farm products. The right to quit work, either individually or collectively, is not denied, but the right to quit work in unions does not extend to those who work for the state, and in all cases of strikes the public interests must be paramount to those of any group.

"The farmers believe in collective bargaining, and such legislation should be enacted by Congress and the State Legislatures as will guarantee this right.

"The drift of population from country to city is not only a menace to the future food production of the nation, but it threatens the political life of the nation. It is today the most momentous issue before the public. To the end that effective measures may be taken to check this tendency to still further congest the centers of population and add fuel to the fires of unrest and discontent, we favor the appointment, under proper resolution and appropriation by the next Legislature, of a commission composed of farmers and farm experts, who shall investigate such legislation as may be necessary to encourage the ownership of farms and to develop the rural life so that it may hold out the same promise of material rewards and social opportunities that are offered to the young men and women in the towns and cities. The increase in tenancy, placing the most productive lands in the care and custody of those who are not vitally concerned about their continued productivity, and who have no abiding interest in the community where they may live, should challenge the attention of every patriot concerned for the economic and political future of the nation.

The commission above mentioned should be charged with the duty of investigating and reporting upon all progressive legislation enacted in this and other forward-looking nations of the world for the encouragement of farm ownership and the advancement of rural life. Such investigation should include the subject of rural credits, community schools, improved roads, better marketing facilities, farm taxation and related subjects.

"The State Department of Agriculture should be reorganized by the next Legislature, to the end that it will be the state clearing house for the agricultural activities of the state. It should be patterned upon the model of other progressive states, where a State Board of Agriculture, nominated by the farmers' organizations, should take the place of the present political organization. The executive head of the Bureau of Agriculture should not be selected by reason of any political favors already conferred or expected, but solely with reference to his fitness for the task. The salary of such executive, to be named by the Board of Agriculture, should be sufficient to attract the most capable talent available. No reflection is intended on any Commissioner of Agriculture, past or present, but it is the system against which we protest.

"More generous appropriations should be made for public education, and particularly for the rural community schools. It should no longer be necessary for farmers to move from their farms, turn them over to the mercies of tenants, and still further congest the cities and towns or permit their children to grow up in ignorance. The university of the state, and especially its college of agriculture, should be adequately supported, to the end that there may be developed a rural and farm leadership that will be capable of competing with the leadership of any other interest or industry. Nothing save public education will do more to make the country attractive than good roads, and we urge that increased state and Federal aid be given for this purpose. We appreciate the fact that if the country home is to retain the boys and girls it must be made more attractive, therefore, we urge increased appropriations for additional instructors in rural sanitation, in rural hygiene, in home economics, and for lectures on rural life.

"J. J. FINNEY, Chairman.
"F. H. DUNKLIN.
"J. HOMER HANCOCK."

Picnic

On the 16th of August a crowd of young and old people gathered in the large ark grove in front of W. C. Newborn's home near Williston.

This little picnic was given in honor of Rev. Dorsey Newborn of Denver Colorado. Somerville, Macon Williston and other towns were well represented. The people were highly entertained by some of the most talented musicians in county.

Prof. Pryor, Lem Murrell, Rev. Dorsey Newborn and Miss Vallie McKinstry furnished the music. Another happy feature of the day was the good old fashion Brunswick Stew which was bountifully served to all. It was a day long to be remembered. "C"

W. S. Newby Resigns City Marshalship

The Falcon has reliable information that the resignation of W. S. Newby as City Marshal of Somerville is to be acted upon by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the city tonight, Thursday, at their regular monthly meeting. This information came from Mr. Newby, himself, but he did not go into details as to his reason for resigning. His resignation will be a matter of regret on part of property owners and many of the best citizens of Somerville. He has been very active in the enforcement of the ordinances of the city and has, thereby, won the favorable consideration of a majority of the substantial citizens of the town.

The Falcon has made an effort to ascertain who might be selected to fill the vacancy, but with several suggestions and no active candidate for the place, as far as learned, it is not possible at this time to predict who will be chosen when the board meets Thursday night, and as the Falcon is printed Thursday afternoon before the election takes place it cannot this week announce the result.

Another State Record Broken By Tennessee Cow

Tennessee is fast becoming one of the leading dairy states of the country. This is demonstrated on most every hand of late. So far this year two records for production have been broken and one record for the entire South smashed by Tennessee Jerseys. You'll Do Alice, a Jersey cow owned by Dr. R. E. Fort of Nashville is the latest record smasher. This cow has just broken the junior three year old record for Tennessee.

She produced 8152.1 pounds of milk and 411.61 pounds of fat with an average of 5.05 per cent fat in 365 days at the age of three years and one month. The record for this age was formerly held by My Fontaine's Beauty 252258, owned by Mrs. H. H. Galbraith, Island Home Farm, Knoxville. This cow had a record of 7561.5 pounds of milk and 407.0 pounds of fat at the age of three years and three months.

The highest record for You'll Do Alice was during the month of May 1919 the fourth month of test when she produced 913.5 pounds of milk testing 4.51 per cent which amounts to 41.2 pounds of fat. The richness of her milk ranged from 3.91 per cent to 6.81 percent with an average of 5.05 percent. She is a daughter of You'll Do Sultan 131122, dam of Alfriston Petition 24236988, she being the daughter of Eminent 14th and of Alfriston Petition 211630, a tested daughter of Alfriston Lud P 3567HC.

In speaking of You'll Do Alice, Dr. Fort said, "For more than a year I have predicted that this cow when mature would produce 12000 pounds of milk. Considering her handicap I consider her performance remarkable. She was not fed as a calf and was very much undersize and calved at 16 months. During her test she was, because of the ever present labor conditions milked only twice a day and by four different men. She was with the herd during the summer and walked a mile to and from the pasture each day. In spite of this April and May were her greatest producing months.

I am justified in believing that under good test conditions she would have produced at least one hundred pounds more fat. Aside from the pasture she was fed ensilage, alfalfa hay and a grain mixture of crushed oats, barley, cotton seed meal or of crushed oats, corn meal and cotton seed meal. The amount ranging from 8 to 14 pounds a day, the amount of cotton seed meal from one to two pounds."

Dr. Fort has recently purchased an imported son of Oxford You'll Do out of an Eminent cow to cross on his line bred Majesty cow. Dr. Fort was one of the first breeders to get an early start in Register of Merit Testing and has been successful in qualifying several cows for certificates. Eight of the cows in his herd are now on test.

This herd combines splendid type with high production, and is well known in the show rings of the country.

The establishing of such records as above and those made by other Tennessee cows of late are due largely to the cow testing work developed in this state by C. A. Hutton, dairy specialist of the Division of Extension, University Tennessee and the work of the dairy department of the college of agriculture.

Splendid Program For West Tennessee Farmers Prepared

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 7, 8, 9, will be big days for West Tennessee farmers. These dates have just been announced as the time of the annual meeting of the Farmers' Institute at Jackson. The program has been completed and those who have it in charge state that it is one of the strongest that has ever been arranged for the organization. Interest in the meeting thruout this section is very keen and the county agriculture and home demonstration agents are making a special effort to have large delegations from their counties in attendance. Able speakers have been secured to discuss and demonstrate up-to-date farm and home methods and topics of vital interest pertaining to West Tennessee agriculture and to country and community life in general.

The morning of the first day will be devoted to talks on the farm orchard and orchard management by F. D. Garrison, Secretary of the Tennessee State Horticultural Society, and A. S. Johnston of Jackson, and addressed by Dr. F. M. McKee, State Commissioner of Agriculture and J. S. Matthews, President of the Institute. An outstanding feature of the afternoon program will be an address on tenant farming by Dr. Tait Butler, Editor of the Progressive Farmer. Truck farming and co-operative marketing will be some of the other live topics discussed by specialists of the Division of extension. Farmers' Union and leading farmers of the section. Following the program in the Institute Hall there will be an inspection trip to the experiment station farm. A night session beginning at 7:30 p. m. will be arranged for those interested in the different lines of crop and livestock production. Those interested in the various phases of these topics will meet together and hold informal discussions, places for such meetings being announced at the day of the session.

A discussion of the growing of feed crops in cotton, tobacco and diversified farming counties will open the second day's session. The discussion will be led by J. C. McAmis, Agronomy Specialist of the Division of Extension and he will be assisted by prominent farmers. The morning session will close with a discussion of county organization by M. C. Burritt of the New York State College of Agriculture. The afternoon session will be devoted largely to a discussion of the cotton industry and cotton production, followed by an address on Essentials in Swine Production by Professor F. B. Morrison, University of Wisconsin, and a demonstration of work stock conducted by Dr. M. Jacob, State Veterinarian.

The last day of the meeting will be devoted to a discussion of the value of the county agent, sheep and goat production; and the building of worn land. This will be followed by report of committees and election of officers.

A very fine program has been prepared for the home makers' section which will be of interest to every house wife. The first session will be devoted largely to a round table discussion of what the county council of agriculture is doing in the various counties. Mrs. Florence Forbes, poultry specialist, Division of Extension will talk on conditioning and selecting birds for exhibit. Interior decoration for the home, bread contest and awarding of premiums, and the president's address will be other features of the day.

The second day will be taken up largely with discussions and demonstrations of dress. This promises to be one of the big features of the meeting. A fashion show will be given showing appropriate dress for various occasions. Two addresses of importance scheduled for the afternoon are those of Mrs. Guilford Dudley, State President of the Woman's Voters League and Miss Margaret Ambrose, assistant director, Division of Extension, Miss Ambrose will speak on social life in rural communities.

On the closing day Professor C. A. Kaffer, director of the Division of Extension will discuss floral arrangements for the home. Mrs. Florence Forbes will conclude the meeting with demonstration in selecting poultry for breeding stock, testing eggs, and culling for egg production. The meeting will adjourn at noon.
